Rather, Abraham was justified without circumcision and without any works, but by faith, as he says in Chapter 4: "If Abraham were justified by works, he may boast, but not before God. And then, in a further assault on the integrity of the authorized text, because apparently the addition of unauthorized material in the form of the headings to the autograph was not sufficient to guarantee the narrative transparency, the interpretive legibility, that editors and commentators sought, another change was made: the beginning of part 2 was moved in order to accommodate the narrative story-line told by the invented rubrics.
